SCALP WOUND
INFLECTED BY NEGRO

S. P. Hockenberger Hit on Head With a Lamp Globe.

While walking on North Main street Saturday night, S. P. Hockenberger and Thomas Spencer, both of Marion and employees of the Marion Steam Shovel company, passed a group of negroes among whom was a woman. The negroes had evidently been drinking, and were quarrelling with the woman, and were creating quite a disturbance when passed by the two white men. After Hockenberger and Spencer had gone a few steps past the men, they were not certain whether the woman was white or colored and thinking her in need of help, retraced their steps.

When they approached the negroes, one of them threw a lamp-globe which he was carrying home, and the missile struck Hockenberger on the forehead, inflicting a scalp wound about two inches in length.

Seeing that the woman was a negro, and evidently going with the men of her own accord, the white men paid no more attention to the quarrel, but went immediately to the office of Dr. W. H. Hinklin, who took several stitches in the wound.

"MOTHER" JAYNES
APPEALS FOR HELP

Trinity Church Meeting
Well Attended.

HOME MISSION WORK

Speaker Tells of the Lives of Unfortunate Women.

Warns Young Girls Not to Leave
Their Homes in the Country For City Life—Advocates a Home For Fallen Girls in Marion.

"Mother" Jaynes, of Delaware made an earnest appeal for more charitable consideration for the unfortunate and fallen women of today in her address delivered in the interests of the Home Missionary work at the Trinity Baptist church Sunday afternoon.

The text was taken from the eleventh verse of the 18th chapter of St. Matthew which reads "For the Son of Man is come to save that which is lost." "I am glad that the Lord has said that whosoever cometh unto him he will not cast out," said the speaker. "I have been asked what is the use of working to save the lost and unfortunate women who want to be lost. Since 1896 my life has been given to this work and during that time I have come in contact with nearly every kind of women and I want to say right here they can be saved.

"I have come this afternoon to plead for the unfortunate and fallen women and I do not speak of the men although their soul is just as precious in the sight of God." "Mother" Jaynes spoke of those who are inclined to shirk their duty in church and missionary work and place the burden on the shoulders of others. "We should not forget that we are all watchmen; that there is something for each of us to do and that we are shirking our duty when we look to some one else to do that which is expected of us.

"The shepherd looks to the safety of his sheep and it is likewise our duty to uplift the fallen. The common impression that they do not desire help is a mistake.

"Do you know that there are three hundred thousand unfortunate and fallen women in the world today? If we have three hundred thousand fallen women we have that many men." The speaker criticized "women" and placed the greater blame upon them for the disaster in which the unfortunate and fallen of her sex are held today. The national inclination of the masses is to uphold and encourage the fallen man and to cast down the girl who never made a mistake in her life until she met the man who caused her downfall. "I want to say right here whenever you see a man or a woman who has started on the downward path try and help them up."

"Mother" Jaynes, while a strict believer in temperance does not consider liquor as the greatest factor in the ruin of the lives of young girls and stated that many girls know nothing of liquor until they have been trapped. She laid particular stress on the responsibility resting upon every man and woman in the world. "Five thousand mother's daughters are filling unknown graves every thirty days and we each have a personal work to do. I don't know how conditions are in Marion but I believe if I were to stay here for two days I would find several girls."

The speaker warned the girl who is tempted to go to the city and decline to a sanction opinion of those who contend that the girl in the country is exempt from present day dangers. "It is the country that is feeding the cities one-half and if there are any girls in this audience who want to go to a larger city, don't go."

The speaker contends that the parents are to blame in many instances for the awful conditions existing in the social world and champions an era of closer relationship between parent and child. The anguish of the child in later years and the outcry "if my parents had only warned me" are frequent results of the negligence on the part of the parents whose false pride causes them to refrain from confiding with their children.

"Mother" Jaynes advocated a home for fallen girls in Marion, a place of refuge for girls coming from the juvenile courts and stranded girls who come here from other cities. In speaking of the work in eighty of such homes throughout the United States she declared that from seventy-five to eighty per cent of the girls therein are saved and lead to live noble and useful lives.

"Mother" Jaynes is affiliated with and working in the interests of the Children's Home of Columbus. She spoke at the Wesley M. E. church Sunday evening.

CLAIM AGAINST UNCLE SAM BY VIRGINIA FOR NORTHWEST DOMAIN;
ONE HUNDRED MILLION NOT ASKED FOR BUT ADVANTAGES SOUGHT

Map of territory claimed. Senators Swanson of Virginia at right, and Watson of West Virginia. The time honored claim of Virginia to the northwest domain has again been brought into the limelight by the introduction into the Senate of a bill requiring the federal government to account to the original thirteen states for the money received from the sale of lands in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin. The sum is estimated at $100,000,000. The new bill does not desire that the money be turned over to the states, but desires to secure certain other advantages.

COL. BRYAN'S "BUSY DAY"
OPPOSING GOV. HARMON

Commoner Engaged in Ripping up Uncle Jud—
Says the Governor Hasn't a Drop of Progressive Blood in Him---Declares for Wilson
---Ohio in the Lime-Light, Today.

(United Press Licensed Wire.)
Ravenna, O., April 15.—WILLIAM Jennings Bryan started from Ravenna this morning on a "busy day" swing through Ohio, urging Democratic voters to vote against Governor Harmon and to support Governor Woodrow Wilson in the presidential primaries May 21. In his Ravenna speech, Mr. Bryan charged Governor Harmon with being Wall street's candidate for the presidency, in closing he told his audience that Governor Wilson is a progressive.

Itinerary for Today.
About a special train Bryan today will visit Akron, Wooster, London, Mammeth, Mount Gilead, Delaware and Columbus, and tomorrow, Morrow, Wilmington, Washington Court House, Circleville, Lancaster, New Lexington, Crooksville, Zanesville, Colerston, Denison and Steubenville.

After discussing the Democratic party's opportunity in his Ravenna speech, Mr. Bryan said concerning the Ohio situation:
"This issue this year is exactly the same as it was in 1896, namely, the people versus Wall street. The money question was merely an incident of the campaign of '96, just as the tariff question is merely an incident of the present campaign. The real question is whether the government is to be run by the people in the interest of the people, or by Wall street in the interest of Wall street. The fight made by the Democratic party in '96 was the first great protest made against the control of the government by the predatory interests. And the Wall street Democrats joined the Republican party with the aid of the largest campaign fund ever used, and by means of coercion such as was never practiced before, defeated the Democratic ticket."

"Governor Harmon, who was then fifty years old, was a member of President Cleveland's cabinet, joined with President Cleveland and the rest of the Cleveland cabinet in opposing the Democratic party and in electing as the Republican president the high priest of protection."

Sympathies Not Changed.
"I affirm that Governor Harmon has not changed in sympathies since that time. I affirm that his sympathies today are with Wall street as they were then and that his nomination would put control of the party in the hands of Wall street. If Governor Harmon denies this, let him show where he has ever publicly admitted that he and President Cleveland were wrong in assisting the Republican party that year. If he was in the right in '96, then the nearly half million Democrats of Ohio who voted for me that year were wrong; if he, and the Democrats of Ohio are together now, either he has changed or they have changed.

"The vote at the primaries, May 21, will show the Democrats of this state after the gallant fight they have made for the protection of the people against the Wall street plunderers, are ready to walk under the yoke and surrender the government into the hands of those who have, for a generation, resorted to every means of deception, corruption and intimidation to exploit the masses. This is the issue in Ohio as it is all over the country."

Urges Votes for Wilson.
In urging the Democratic voters of Ohio to vote for Wilson in the primaries, Mr. Bryan said:

"I wish it were possible for you to vote directly for presidential candidates in the districts as well as in the state at large. But in the districts you must vote for delegates committed to candidates instead of for the candidates themselves. In this state your choice is limited to Harmon and Wilson and I urge you to vote for Wilson and Wilson delegates. If the issue were between Harmon and Clark, I would urge you to vote for Clark and Clark delegates. If the issue were between Harmon and any other progressive I would urge you to vote for the progressive and progressive delegates whoever the progressive might be. In other words, I am for any progressive against any reactionary—for the people and against Wall street."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS DISMISSED.
A crowd that filled the entire front of the courthouse yard and overflowed into the streets heard Bryan at Ravenna. The streets were lined with farmers rigs and automobiles. Scores of men and women pressed forward to shake hands with the commoner. Bryan was entertained at breakfast at the home H. W. Riddle, a Democratic leader. The public schools were dismissed. Bryan urged the Democratic voters of the 19th district to vote for L. C. Koplin of Akron, and Aaron Farnham of West Farmington, the Wilson candidates for national convention delegates.

After finishing his set speech, Bryan repeated his recent declaration that if Harmon carries Nebraska in the primaries there April 19 he will resign as national convention delegate, should he be elected.

"Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland opposed Governor Harmon's nomination on the ground that he represented the J. Pierpont Morgan interests," added Bryan.

After declaring that Harmon was twice elected on platforms endorsing the initiative and referendum and before the constitutional convention last month repudiated these pledges, Bryan
